That's the difference between the right and the left. When the left protests you better get your business out if there. When the right protests, get your food trucks in there!

Tell people you've arrived and are ready without literally geolocating yourselves please.

Plus, I hope to hell that the luggage tag right there in the picture doesn't have a name on it.

I've seen it many times on here. They don't learn. A simple search of hotel rooms' websites and pics of their interiors [especially within walking radius from DC or the WH] is so easy to do and identify which hotel you're in. Not very wise. I just SMFH any more, it's silly and they don't get it.

When we starting warning ppl she was antifa they would say things like "oh well they can take our picture from across the street so whats the difference".

Nov 14th had a metric shit-ton of random photographers running up to people to take photos. I think someone out there has 999 photos of my forehead because we kept looking down every time they got in our face. BLM is despicable but they are well funded and have solid logistics (prepositioning supplies, water bottles and food at key points). Don't underestimate them.

The place can be identified pretty easily just from the contents of this photo, by the way. If the communist cunts wanted to find you, they'd at least find your hotel from this photo. Then, they'd know at least one hotel that's booking a bunch of out of town guests for the 6th. I'm thrilled that you're representing our nation! Please don't post a bunch of photos or video of your location before 11AM on the 6th.

Yea, I know some of us are so pro free enterprise, we don't want to say it, but (as you may have heard from Senator Josh Hawley recently) those corporations are the biggest pushers of cultural Marxism today and they despise us (patriotic American populists). I don't believe it takes much pressure to get the international corporations to comply with their own communist insurgents.

You shouldn't post your room. There are apps that are used for finding the hotels from pictures of child sex trafficking victims. Basically people post images of their hotel rooms and which hotel it is so that others are able to easily locate places based on an otherwise vague hotel room.

There used to be an app that asked users to take pics of their hotel rooms for the sake of trying to ID rooms used in human trafficking.

I don't know who was behind the app.

My wife and I will be arriving Tuesday afternoon. Is there an itinerary available online somewhere? Where is everyone meeting on the 6th? Are there PDF files of sign designs somewhere? We want to come prepared!

I did some research online and it looks like 4 different groups have applied for permits - Women for America First at Freedom Plaza, Wild Protest at the northeast quadrant of the Capitol lawn, a small group led by a South Carolinian named James Epley from the Mall to the Capitol, and the Eighty Percent Coalition which seems to be led by a woman who was an organizer for Women For America. That application was for Freedom Plaza too, but has been amended to request space at the Sylvan Theater near the Washington Monument. I guess we'll just keep monitoring things and look out for President Trumps tweets.
